Moon-Young Lee's Public Administration and Asian Democracy

Date: October 23 & 24, 2015

Time: 14:00 - 18:00

Place: Korean Traditional Culture Auditorium, Jeonju, Jollabuk-do, Korea

Sojeong Fellowship of Public Administration
Korean Association for Local Government & Administration Studies
Jeonbuk Future Research Institute

Sponsored by Jollabuk-do Provincial Government and the Editorial Board of World Environment and Island Studies

Invitation:

The Sojeong Fellowship of Public Administration, a group of fellows who study Professor Moon-Young Lee's public administration, cordially invites you to its third meeting for mini-conference and a party to celebrate the publication of English translation of Lee's Man, Religion, and State: American Public Administration, Puritanism, and Martin Luther's 95 Theses (Seoul, Nanam: 2001). Professor Lee (1927-2014) devoted his life to Korean democratization and development of a framework for democratic governance on the basis of his research in public administration and struggles against dictatorships. The mini-conference and round-table discussion are aimed at studying and sharing Lee's theory of public administration and experiences for democratic governance. Professor Chang Hoon Ko has translated Lee's (2001) Man, Religion, and State for the past twelve years and this meeting celebrates the publication of this book.
